CABINET MAY TAKE HAND IN CAMPAIGN FOR CONGRESS.

ACT CRITICIZED

Washington.—Secretary Hughes' letter defending Senator Newberry has started a good deal of talk here. President Harding will reverse himself, and let members of the cabinet participate. After all, in the congressional campaign.

Not long ago some republicans from Ohio asked to have Secretary of State as an important factor and hence the publication of Mr. Hughes' letter to a Jersey clergyman, clearing Senator Newberry of guilt in connection with his election.

The republicans are astir about it. The broadside levied by Cordell Hull, chairman of the democratic committee, in which he pointed out that the senate itself had adopted a resolution disapproving the manner by which Mr. Newberry was elected, will undoubtedly be followed by further bombardment by the democrats. They were pointing out Wednesday, for instance, that Mr. Hughes' letter to a Jersey clergyman, clearing Senator Newberry of guilt in connection with his election.

Unstated, in "charge." The democrats are astir about it. Plaintiffs Drop Filled Milk Case

(By Associated Press)

Madison.—Request for rehearing on the decision of the Wisconsin supreme court, upholding constitutionality of the law enacted by the 1921 legislature prohibiting manufacture and sale of filled milk within this state, was withdrawn Wednesday by attorneys for the Carnation Milk company, plaintiffs in the case.

Assurance was given H. M. Hoyt, deputy attorney general, by the Carnation Milk company that it would not appeal the case to the United States supreme court. This means termination of all litigation over the Wisconsin law against milk compounds.

Hoyt, who had carried the case through the courts to a successful conclusion for the state, Wednesday signed the stipulation withdrawing the motion for rehearing. J. Q. Emery, dairy and food commissioner, now will undertake enforcement of the statute, which prohibits milk companies from manufacturing and grocers from selling the various compounds made from skimmed milk and vegetable oils.

The Carnation Milk company recently stopped sale within Wisconsin of Hebe, and is reported by the attorney general's office to have agreed to discontinue manufacture of filled milk in its two Wisconsin plants.

GOVERNMENT ASKS SHIPPING HEARING

Supreme Court Definition of Fleet Corporation Is Assailed.

[By Associated Press]

Washington.—Asserting there is an apparent "irreconcilable conflict" in the doctrine announced by the supreme court in its recent decisions defining the emergency fleet corporation and "theistic rule" established by the court in a number of prior decisions, the government has filed a petition asking for a hearing.

The opinion had introduced a practical difficulty of far-reaching effectiveness with reference to the administrative "action" of various government officials, the petition asserts. It asks whether contracts made by the fleet corporation are contracts of the United States and what authority the shipping board or fleet corporation has to use the name of the company presented by the state defendants charged their plea of not guilty to guilty and promised to pay to Mr. Wiltsie the sum of $518,10 in the near future.

Has No Assets

The government also wants to know whether treasury officials are justified in honoring checks drawn by the fleet corporation for paying debts or satisfying claims for damages.

It is pointed out in the petition that the fleet corporation, in its own capacity and not as representing the United States, has no assets, but it has enormous debts which the court stated "are its debts and not the debts of the United States." It is explained there are hundreds of such claims pending against it, for sums aggregating more than $100,000, "and the court is asked whether all payments thereon from treasury funds must be suspended."

Who Money It?

The government also wants to know whether funds derived from the sale of ships will be apportioned among the fleet corporation and the port authorities, or whether the money belongs to the United States. As the opinion will become the guide for United States district courts in dealing with hundreds of suits throughout the country, the government asks for a re-argument as a means of preventing "many future appeals and much litigation apparently now inevitable."

Convene in New York to Consider Mediators' Settlement Offer.

RAIL DEVELOPMENTS

Rail executives meeting in New York to reply to proposals of train service brotherhood leaders for mediation in shopmen's strike, reach no decision at morning session.

Restoration of Train Service on Louisville-St. Louis line of Southern railway started, following cancellation of walkout by trainmen, after agreement of company to reduce numbers of armed guards.

OKLAHOMA'S NATIONAL GUARD units mobilized upon reports that 100 deputy U.S. marshals sufficient to guard Rock Island shops at Shawnee, Oklahoma.

Scattered acts of violence continue.

[By Associated Press.]

Philadelphia.—As railroad executives gathered in New York today to consider peace proposals by the heads of the transportation brotherhoods acting as mediators in the shopmen's strike, trouble on the Southern railway, principal sufferer from trainmen's walkouts during the last few days, began to clear away.

The flutter of the peace dove was drowned, however, by the noise of exploding bombs which kept the rail strike fever at a high stage in some of the nation's rail centers.

A tremendous explosion in the Chicago and Alton roundhouse at Venice, Ill., shook buildings within a radius of three miles and police squads were rushed to the shops when further violence was threatened. Several sticks of dynamite were thrown on the roof of the roundhouse where a number of men were working.

William and Ralph Royce, father and son of Plymouth farmers, were fined $10 and costs in municipal court, Wednesday morning after a plea of guilty of assaulting J. A. Wiltsie had been entered by their attorneys, Owen Risham, Beloit, P. J. Wood, and Harry Fox.

The opinion had introduced a practical difficulty of far-reaching effectiveness with reference to the administrative "action" of various government officials, the petition asserts. It asks whether contracts made by the fleet corporation are contracts of the United States and what authority the shipping board or fleet corporation has to use the name of the corporation when incurred under contracts made by it.

Robbers Believed Slayers of Fred Oesterreich in Los Angeles.

Lake City, Minn.—Last Saturday night, when a man was shot and killed in his home here Tuesday night, presumably by burglars.

If he was a real Irishman that killed Mike, I would say the Irish race stands disgraced. But I know that wasn't. It was some dirty blackguard not fit to wipe his boots. When this trouble has come from Ireland, I guess I can say, without boasting, that the name of Michael Collins will be high on the list of martyrs that have fought and died for the old sod.

MAY ASK FEDERAL AID AT ST. P. SHOPS

Shooting Incident Stirs Special Agent to Seek Extra Help.

Federal protection for the Chicago-Milwaukee & St. Paul roundhouse at South Pearl street may be asked by Special Agent Edward Lutze, Milwaukee, in charge of the railroad guards at the C. M. & St. P. The firing of seven shots from a .32 calibre revolver at the roundhouse Monday by men in an automobile has stirred Mr. Lutze.

The railroad agent is investigating the situation and may appeal to the United States Marshal W. V. Chellis, Madison, for two deputy marshals.

"We cannot stand for this kind of thing much longer," he said Wednesday.

Three men were in danger of their lives by the flying bullets. The night foreman of the roundhouse had a bullet pass on each side of his head. It was said: A wiper and another maintenance man of way man had lead while past their ears, it is claimed. None of these men is connected with the strike.

No License Plate

The automobile investigation shows carried no license plate. A probe of the incident will be continued until the guilty are apprehended, St. Paul officials declare.

natural reply to the attorney general should have been a refusal to discuss the case because of his former connection with it.

Now, as Parallel.

Some democrats are trying to draw a parallel between Mr. Hughes' position with reference to Senator Newberry and Attorney General Daugherty's position with reference to Charles W. Morse. Mr. Daugherty was instrumental in securing the pardon of Mr. Morse. Mr. Morse's position at the time and had no connection with the government.

When the case involving Morse came before the department of justice, however, Mr. Daugherty is said to have promptly reminded those who were interested in the prosecution that a special assistant should handle the matter so that he himself would not be in an embarrassing position.

Mr. Hughes defended Senator Newberry before the supreme court of the United States, of which he was a member but a few years ago. He won the case on technical grounds, which the democrats now say had nothing to do with the moral questions involved upon which the senate itself passed when it adopted a resolution condemning the large expenditure of money in the November election. That's why Senator Pomeroy and other democrats are so ready to attack the Hughes letter as being an effort to whitewash Senator Newberry.

Hughes' Standing Secure.

The situation in democratic circles is, of course, due to the fact that the prestige of Charles Evans Hughes is well established and many people will accept his conclusions as final because they believe in his sincerity and probity.

The Hughes letter, however, will unquestionably figure in the campaign as the democrats will endeavor to make capital out of the fact that Mr. Hughes was counsel of Senator Newberry and that his letter is therefore, that of a prejudiced party.

Entirely apart from the merits of the Newberry case, the chances are Mr. Hughes and other members of the Harding cabinet will now draw into the actual campaign, notwithstanding the earliest resolution of President Harding to keep them out of it. The republican national committee knows the value of marshaling cabinet members just as did the democratic national committee under the last administration.

President to All.

Mr. Harding himself has said he would not take the stump for congress but a few letters from the president and his cabinet are certain to find as soon as they are needed in specific localities or as an appeal to republicans everywhere just before the elections. It's true the administration has been trying to keep out of republican primary contests, but this is no reason why the full weight of the administration's political power cannot be thrown into the campaign to save the republican congress from the loss of too many seats.

YANKEES TIRE OF OLD SPANISH FAKE

Yarn of Beautiful Princess Imprisoned in Tower Is Worn Out.

Granada, Spain—Americans have quit coming to Spain in search of the beautiful and wealthy princess impaled in a dark, damp tower by a greedy uncle, who is anxious to annex her fortune.

The historic old Spanish swindle apparently has gone out of fashion in the United States, but it is still in vogue in other parts of the world. Germany has recently supplied quite a crop of kind-hearted gentlemen and a crop of kind-hearted gentlemen of the dark-eyed Spanish beauty who was suffering in a rat-infested cell and slowly dying on a diet of dry bread and water while the bats hovered about her head and added to the terrors of her solitary confinement.

Granada Is Mecca

Granada always was a popular center for the women who have contributed to the relief of imprisoned beauties. Washington Irving and scores of lesser writers have credited Granada with having more beautiful women than any other city in the world. The legend of the Rose of the Alhambra and the stories of the three beautiful princesses, Zayda, Zoraida and Zorahana, hover about the Alhambra and make it the natural refuge for disappointed investors in distressed beauty.

Vaudeville stars always have found the names of Moorish princesses suitable on playbills. They come with them on the atmosphere of the harem, of the veiled face and the oriental dance. They suggest the Alhambra and millions of gold, and the priceless Moorish jewels which Boabdil and his court are reported in legend to have secreted in their beautiful palace before it was surrendered to Ferdinand and Isabella. Boabdil and his queen are supposed to be hiding in a cavern in the neighborhood mountains waiting for a magic call from Mohammed which will restore them to their old glory in the Alhambra. Every tower, every turret, every minaret and every dungeon in the old Alhambra has its legend.

"Castles, by Sea!"

It is not strange that searchers for princesses should come to Granada after having sought vainly for mythical castles in mythical mountains. Most of the modern Spanish princesses are being held captive in castles as in the old. The castles in the sea are to much damper, and then it is much more romantic for rescue parties to approach the rocky coast in ships and wave to the imprisoned princess, who will promptly tear her clothing to bits and make a rope with which she will lower herself from the gloomy tower.

Many of the imposters who are marketing adventure to credulous investors give their princesses the names of famous women who have been dead for centuries. Moranay and the royal ladies of the Moorish regime who have been dead for over 400 years, and many other celebrities of history and legend have lent their names to princesses supposed to be in distress.

Dupes Keep Quiet

Hotels keep in Granada, have become skilled in detecting visitors who are searching for imprisoned beauties. They usually make no guarded inquiries and seldom admit they have been duped. Frequently they give for gypsy fortune tellers or astrologers, who probably charge well for their services. Letters concerning the distressed princesses are usually marked strictly confidential and instructions are given that nothing must be said to anyone lest the life of the princess be endangered. Most of the dupes are too much ashamed of their plight to confess openly that they have been galled, but an occasional victim approaches some of the foreign consuls or seeks the aid of the Spanish police in trying to recover money advanced to the swindlers.

GREEKS TO RESIST TURKS' ASIA RULE

Will Fight Allied Proposal to Evacuate Territory, Say Envys.

A story of elaborate preparations by representatives of 1,000,000 inhabitants of Western Asia Minor to resist the efforts of the allied powers that the Greeks are to withdraw from the island of Smyrna and permit the country to become the rule of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, has been brought to this country by Stephanos Beliglou and Antonios Athinogenis, sent here as official delegates of the Christian Patriarchate Defense, with headquarters at Smyrna.

"When we issue our call for volunteers, Greeks in America, Egypt, Constantinople and Europe will flock to our banners to put down the hand of the brutal Turk. We are here to inform the American people of what is going on in western Asia Minor and to ask the most help of the United States. Its people and its Government. In that connection we will present a memorandum to the State Department."

"The Treaty of Sevres practically made us a part of Greece. Since that decision has been changed by the decision of the allied Ministers, we have decided to become an independent state, never again under Turkish rule. Many Turks in our territory now able to compare life under their own officials with life under Greek rule, will fight with us. We will be joined in large numbers by Circassians who are Moslems."

WILL PROTECT HOME.

"We have lost 100,000 men on the battlefield of Asia Minor. Those men died to free western Asia Minor from the Turks. Many Turks have begged permission for their families to come to Smyrna and other parts of western Asia Minor, away from Turkish misrule."

HAVE 35,000 MEN.

"We have 35,000 men in the Greek army. We are recruiting our forces so that they may eventually reach 100,000. We have organized a gendarmerie of 25,000 as a reserve force. On our way to this country word reached us that a more intensive mobilization of the population had begun."

"The Greek military authorities in Smyrna have mobilized Armenians and Georgians who have volunteered. We know that even if the word is given to the Greek Army to evacuate the region, a large part of the army will never accept the order so long as the Christians of Asia Minor will have to fight to maintain their freedom."

"Under the treaty of Sevres, the people of Asia Minor were freed from Turkish rule. The subsequent political conditions caused the allied foreign Ministers to decide to do to the Greeks as had been done to the Christians of Asia Minor.

PLAN FOR DEFENSE.

"Directly the decision became known to us last March we began our defense. You have probably read in this country that the evacuated territory would pass over to Turkey. That is not true. The Turks would be expected to protect the Christians. We in Asia Minor read this decision differently. We interpret it as death at the hands of the Turks or deportation from our homes."

"If our just rights are to be ignored, if the agencies of our heroic struggles against ruthless barbarism must go unheeded, and if the fact that the Paris Peace Conference acknowledged our sacred right to free life is to be set aside, then alternative, we have but to rise and die like men."

"We do not ask the civilized world to go to Western Asia Minor and to

5 RURAL SCHOOLS OPEN NEXT WEEK

Dozen More Teachers Are Needed in Rock County, Assertion.

The first sign that the summer is fast waning as far as youth is concerned, will be the opening next week of about five of the rural schools in Rock county. A large portion of them will open the following week in accordance with the general practice throughout Wisconsin, the day after Labor day.

The rural schools in the county, according to the information from the county superintendent's office, need 12 more school teachers. These will undoubtedly be engaged during the next week. The general standard of salaries is being maintained but in several instances teachers signed contracts you have accepted slight decreases.

About 80 children took examinations for various subjects in which they were not proficient at the regular yearly examinations for diplomas at the courthouse Tuesday. Those passing will be awarded diplomas.

ANTHRACITE COAL PEACE IS BALKED

ance or rejection by either side within 10 days, after the arbitrating board's recommendations were submitted.

Mr. Lewis' statement in setting forth the miners' objections to arbitration in any form to assist the consolidation board, proposed by the operators, was similar to the United States railway labor board, which had furnished an objectionable example by "plundering" failure to function with proper regard for the workers' rights.

"The miners have declined to purchase peace at any price," he said.

HOOVER PRESENTS COAL PRICE REGULATIONS PLANS

Washington—Alternative plans for the maintenance of fair prices for coal and for its equitable distribution during the past strike period were presented to President Harding today by Secretary Hoover.

One plan, as presented for the president's approval, was understood to provide for the creation of a federal fuel distribution agency along the lines of the voluntary industry operating under Federal Fuel Distributor Spencer.

It also would authorize the Interstate Commerce commission to assume greater powers in the assignment of freight cars.

The other proposal is understood to provide for the creation of a coal purchasing association which would stabilize fuel prices by the fixation of a fair price for coal bought and sold by the government.

Lansing, Mich.—Gov. Alex J. Groseclose Wednesday revived his plan to take over and operate under state control a coal mine at Unionville in the Saginaw district above the acute fuel shortage facing state institutions. An option on the property, binding for sixty days has been obtained. Under the option the mine, estimated to contain 3,000,000 tons of coal could be purchased for $150,000. Maximum capacity of the mine is 500 tons a day and all fuel mined would be sent to state institutions. It was announced.

SIGN UP MINERS ON INCREASED PAY CLAIM

Washington—West Virginia non-union coal operators are preparing to sign up with miners an agreement to increase the basic wage scale from $4.65 a day to $7.18 a day, it was reported Wednesday to Federal Fuel Distributor Spencer. The New River non-union district of West Virginia, it was said, has already signed up for the $7.18 a day basic wage scale and operators in other West Virginia districts are preparing to adopt the same agreement.

The findings of coal Monday totaled 13,000 cars, the distribution agency announced, which was the greatest car loading for any day since April 1. The anthracite situation in Pennsylvania was under discussion Wednesday by Mr. Spencer and the central committee and the belief was expressed that hard coal miners in the great coal section would have to turn to some substitute for anthracite next winter. The possibilities of making provisions for the allocation of soft coal and coke to this section was considered by the committee.

1920-22 SCALE ORDERED POSTED AT COAL MINES

Pittsburgh—The scale committee of the Pittsburgh Coal Producers Association Tuesday ordered the 1920-22 scales posted at all mines owned and operated by its members, but declined to yield to the demands of the United Mine Workers that the check off provisions of the scale be enforced. About 45,000 union miners are affected.

NOVEL PROGRAMS FOR VISITORS' DAY

Exhibits, Races, Contests at Five Playgrounds,

Thursday.

This being the last week of the 1922 playground season, the second annual visitors' day will be observed at the five grounds Thursday, with novel programs arranged. The public is invited.

Perhaps the most novel program has been drawn up for the afternoon at the Jefferson school, from 1 to 5 p. m., by the Jefferson playground committee of which Mrs. G. F. Ehrhardt is chairman. A general display will be made of all the work carried on by the children during the summer, such as dolls, doll-carriages "push-mobils," wagons of all kinds, kites, sand-box displays, animals, sewing, flowers, fruits, vegetables, bread, pies and cakes. All entries are to be in by 1:30. Following is the program:

1:30—Weekly track meet, followed by a baseball game between boys and girls.

3—Circle Games for younger children.

4—Boat Races in Pool.

4—Miniature water carnival around wading-pool, the following four classes of boats to be entered, 5 to few feet:

1—pink paper boats; 2—sailing boats; 3—paper boats that wind up; 4—boats by children at home with help of parents, or on the playgrounds. The races will be run in heats, according to size and style of boat.

An exhibit of flowers, fruit, vegetables, jelly and all kinds of home-cooking as well as sewing, will be conducted by Mrs. O. N. Nelson and Mrs. J. M. Dorrans. Children and parents are asked to send their exhibits to the grounds not later than 1:30. Ribbons will be awarded the best, then all will be sold for the benefit of the playgrounds.

Ice cream "pies" will be given as prizes in track events and boat races and ice cream cones will be served free to children and adults to celebrate the day, which the Jefferson school instituted a year ago. A rooster will be given the youngest baby on the grounds, the heaviest of six months old and the one with the most teeth at 10 months of age.

Made at Adams

The visitors' day program at the Adams school will open at 1:30 o'clock with a presentation of songs and music by the school orchestra. Two dances will be offered by Jean Bright and Harriet Smith and a dance by Virginia Waggoner.

Following the music and program a boat carnival will be held in the wading pool. Children are asked to bring all the boats they have, and prizes will be awarded for the best factory and home-made exhibits. Mr. F. O. High and Mr. Arthur will act as judges.

A day of wrist, sand boxes and cloth circles will be shown, followed by a baseball game between the mid-grade and the girls' team. Tea service cones will be served by the Parent-Teachers' Association.

A baseball game between the Douglass and Washington teams of the junior league will be the feature of the Washington school program. A tennis tournament will follow the games.

The school orchestra will play at intervals throughout the afternoon and an exhibit of dolls and flowers on display.

VOLLEY BALL GAME

Volley ball games between picked teams will be the main attraction at the Douglas grounds. An exhibit of "flowing" will be shown.

The program at the Webster school will be under the charge of Mrs. Maeve Dalton, president of the Webster-Gardell Parents-Teachers' Association, and will include special recitations and dances. A piano solo will be given by Louise Kline and violin number by Phoebe Griffey. Recitations will be presented by Henrietta Kline and Betty Ann Mayer, and Lorraine Kennedy will give a solo dance and the pupils of Miss Josephine Fitzgerald will present several numbers.

Following the program there will be a baseball game between the girls' teams of the Douglas and Webster schools.

DEBATE OPENED ON YANK BONUS BILL

On July 1st by 1930 the cost of the bonus would drop to $51,000,000, with only 2½ years less millions thereafter until 1943, when the certificates would come due.

CASH IS ELIMINATED

Explaining the provisions of the bill, as reported, he said the cash provision had been eliminated except in the case of veterans entitled to $50 or less, with the total of these payments estimated at $16,000,000 to be paid next year, and that in its place had been substituted a certificate plan with loan privileges. He estimated that 71 percent of the veterans

SIGN UP MINERS ON INCREASED PAY CLAIM

Washington—West Virginia non-union coal operators are preparing to sign up with miners an agreement to increase the basic wage scale from $4.65 a day to $7.18 a day, it was reported Wednesday to Federal Fuel Distributor Spencer. The New River non-union district of West Virginia, it was said, has already signed up for the $7.18 a day basic wage scale and operators in other West Virginia districts are preparing to adopt the same agreement.

The findings of coal Monday totaled 13,000 cars, the distribution agency announced, which was the greatest car loading for any day since April 1. The anthracite situation in Pennsylvania was under discussion Wednesday by Mr. Spencer and the central committee and the belief was expressed that hard coal miners in the great coal section would have to turn to some substitute for anthracite next winter. The possibilities of making provisions for the allocation of soft coal and coke to this section was considered by the committee.

1920-22 SCALE ORDERED POSTED AT COAL MINES

Pittsburgh—The scale committee of the Pittsburgh Coal Producers Association Tuesday ordered the 1920-22 scales posted at all mines owned and operated by its members, but declined to yield to the demands of the United Mine Workers that the check off provisions of the scale be enforced. About 45,000 union miners are affected.

THE SAME OLD FOREST FIRE

From now to the time when the heavy fall rains come and the ground is wet enough to keep fire from running, we will have news every few days of other forest fires which have added to the tragic record of the timbered sections in the past week. No matter how many times we repeat the warning or how often we see the recurring destruction, we go on our careless way rejoicing that we are out of it. We could build a street of houses from Chicago to New York with the timber destroyed in a decade by forest fires. Tourists have a responsibility now when the grass and timber are dry and the danger will be increased when the leaves begin to fall. Fires preventable and started through carelessness cause so much damage that we never will realize it until we are brought face to face with it ourselves individually.

The most dramatic and pleasing words this month have been "Back to the mines!"

ONE OF THE EXPENSES OF MARKETING

We have been talking about the elimination of the middleman and other ornaments in the handling of retail products, after the farmer has received his smaller share of the final cost but it seems we have lost sight of one of the larger elements in marketing costs. The housewife once upon a time went to market and carried home her purchases but that is no longer true.

We arrived at a period of existence when we had so much self consciousness and were afraid some of the codfish aristocracy would see us lugging home the bacon and cheese and bread that we asked the grocer to deliver, the ten cents worth of liver, pronto.

We recognize the fact that we have a complicated and botched system of food distribution and speculation is one of the factors that keeps it so. The path from the farm to the consumer should be cleared of the obstructionists. That is easy to say and has been repeated for many years by many able men as well as agitators who have never gone farther than to make the assertion and by others who did not know a plow handle from a hay rake. Political formulas have accomplished nothing here any more than they have in settling the coal distribution which Mr.
Hoover points out is the most inefficient and evil of all. The central market in municipalities operated under municipal control have not solved the problem. Here farm products, fruit and vegetables, are shipped to farm distributing agencies.
But the housewife will not go to market. The telephone is used and the delivery wagon brings the orders to the door. She pays for gasoline and the wage of the driver with a trifle for deterioration of property and inveighs against the high cost of living and naively wonders why the farmer does not accumulate a vast fortune.

Codily and elaborate systems of handling, delivery from one shipper to another, distribution to retailers and then to the consumer, have grown up on the demand of the housekeeper in order that she may be relieved of all labor and trouble in marketing for her table. Farmers ought to be their own middlemen and cut that part of the cost out at the beginning. We shall eventually get some such system of distribution as will prevent, as is the case right now, peaches rotting in New Jersey only a few miles from the larger cities of the country. There will eventually be a great farmer market at the doors of every city with proper distributing agencies. Until the city dweller is content to return to the simpler method of marketing for the table—go to the market and deliver the goods, they buy themselves—we will have to be content with the machinery which must and will be sooner or later established by farmers for the orderly and systematic distribution of products, eliminating the speculator and the repeated handlings.

But we wonder if, the average housewife ever stopped to think when she complains of the high price of fruit and vegetables, how much she contributes for service and how little the farmer or producer got from her for the work he did on the production?

"At least," says Germany. "It must be said we made our mark in the world."

WHERE IS THE HOPE OF THE WETS?

It might be well for the wets who are making a campaign on that issue to look over the figures in congress and see what they are up against.

We have had several primaries and many congressmen have been nominated. So far there has not been a great overturn of the drys and no gains to speak of for wets. That is surely true of the south and west. There must be at least 124 new members of the house before the Volstead law can be overturned. It will be necessary to elect 30 wet senators and not even the most sanguine feels that this can be accomplished. It must be remembered, also that in a number of the senatorial contests now going on, the wet and

FUTURE OF THE RAILROAD LABOR BOARD

JUST FOLKS

BILL'S IDEAS

Washington — The fate of the railroad labor board hangs in the balance as one of the results of the strike. A proposal to abolish the board is under consideration and may develop into one of the big fights in congress this winter. It is also suggested that the headquarters of the board be moved from Chicago to Washington. Many leaders make no secret of their desire that the railway labor tribunal be eliminated as a factor in industrial relations. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is conspicuous among them. They believe there should be no governmental interference in the controversies between employers and employees, which combats the idea that there should be any limitation of the right of workers to strike, and which resists all propositions looking to compulsory arbitration.

Some of the more powerful of the railway executives are wholly in sympathy with these views. They are the "bitter enders" who have been fighting organized labor for many years and who believe all conflicts between capital and labor should be fought out to a finish. The only kind of industrial peace they regard as desirable is that which comes when one side or the other has been beaten into complete submission.

These opponents of the railroad labor board predicted its failure when the transportation act of 1920 was passed. Needless to say, they have not done their utmost to make the board a success. Friends of the board, in congress and out, therefore, will not adopt a policy of non-resistance in the face of the promised assault on it. It will counter with a movement to give the board increased powers—to put teeth into the law, as they express it.

The board was organized in April, 1920, and its first task was a wage case in which it granted increases all along the line. This decision was accepted by the managements of the various railroads. However, it was while this case was pending that the controversy was started that was the first menace to efficacy of the new law and the new tribunal. During federal operation of the roads, a national agreement covering rules and working conditions had been negotiated between the unions and the railroad administration and national boards of adjustment, bipartisan in character, had been established to settle differences which might arise under the agreement.

As soon as the railroads were returned to private control, it was made clear that the railway executives would fight the national agreement. It was also apparent that, whereas the new law provided for the creation of national adjustment boards similar to those that had functioned under government operation, the executives were determined none should be established.

Officials of the railway labor organizations asked the executives to meet with them and arrange for the adjustment boards. The executives replied the new law did not make the establishment of these boards compulsory and they would not agree to any such agencies on a national basis. They indicated a willingness to establish regional boards or boards on individual railroads or systems.

These adjustment boards were intended to handle the almost innumerable cases of minor importance which would swamp the railroad labor board if the subordinate agencies were not created. The railway workers, therefore, charged that the executives were deliberately trying to break down the law and make it impossible for the railroad labor board to function efficiently.

Whatever justification there was for this charge it is at least the board was deluged with cases which it should never have had to consider and that this was the beginning of bad feeling between the executives and the leaders of the workers.

The railroads asked that the national agreement be abandoned. Officials of the unions offered to meet the executives in national conference and negotiate a new agreement based on the old one. The executives declined.

This controversy then went to the railroad labor board and, while it was pending, many of the railroads announced that they intended to reduce wages. The board ruled that no wage reductions should be put into effect until it had heard the case and rendered a decision. In spite of this, a few ignored the board's ruling and undertook to make wage reductions immediately effective. The board has no authority to enforce its decisions, but its members did their utmost to persuade the railway executives to abide by them.

Later the board decided certain wage reductions should be made. It set aside the national agreement, but laid down certain fundamental principles that should govern the negotiation of new agreements on individual roads or systems. It also modified the overtime rule in such a manner that the workers contended the eight-hour law was evaded, if not violated.

An election of employees, representatives on the Pennsylvania system was protested by unions and the board held the election did not conform to its rulings. Pennsylvania officials announced their intention of standing by what they had done the board decided to publish the fact that the railroad had violated one of the board's decisions. Thereupon the Pennsylvania went into court and secured an injunction restraining the board from such action. This injunction was set aside on appeal to a higher court, but the railroad served notice that it would carry the case to the supreme court.

Certain railroads also adopted a policy of closing their own repair shops, leasing them to private companies and then turning over repair work to these corporations. The unions of the shop crafts charged this was a deliberate attempt on the part of the roads to evade the jurisdiction of railroad labor board, and in effect the board held this "farming out" of repair work was contrary to the spirit of the law and should be discontinued.

Thus, when the wage reduction applying to the shop workers was announced to take effect July 1 last, so much bad feeling had been stirred up that it was not surprising that the employees decided to strike, in spite of the board's decision. They insisted that if the railroads could flout the board's decisions, the workers should have the same privilege, and they proceeded to exercise it.

In the circumstances it appears almost inevitable that some changes will be made in the labor provisions of the transportation act. Few well informed people in Washington believe the railroad labor board will be abolished, but it is seen that something must be done if there is not to be a complete breakdown of the law. But it will take time and a high order of statesmanship to work out changes that will be effective.

But we wonder if, the average housewife ever stopped to think when she complains of the high price of fruit and vegetables, how much she contributes for service and how little the farmer or producer got from her for the work he did on the production?

"At least," says Germany. "It must be said we made our mark in the world."

THE STRONG MAN DIES YOUNG

A reader sends this query: Concerning the wrestler, who died recently, if he was still allowing him to grow or who are still allowing him to grow rapidly, for such boys cannot safely "rink" in a few weeks, as is carelessly attempted in too many schools, without seriously endangering their health, which are already taxed to keep pace with the rapid growth.

I find that a similar idea is still very prevalent. Although a great amount of general exercise is good for the good of general health, I have always tried to impress the reader's mind of the opinion that physical or muscular strength is equivalent to health or that greater muscular strength assures good health.

The contrary is, rather nearer the truth. Persons with extraordinary muscular strength "strong" certain products of "physical culture," who manage to avoid hypertension or overdevelopment of certain groups of muscles, and certain professional athletes "trained" by unwise training, are not only deficient in general health status as compared with ordinary persons, but are short-lived. I do not imply that intelligent athletics shorten life. I am speaking of the abnormal.

The particular wrestler the correspondent mentions I know nothing about. But there is nothing in either intelligent athletic training or professional athletic training which is not liable to infections which may cause disease of the heart. There is something in excessive muscular development, overtraining, the freak development of the "physical culture" victim, that does tax a man's heart and make him more vulnerable to purely mechanical failure of the heart in an emergency. Overgrown muscles sap a man's energy; they act as parasites on the body. Intelligent training does not allow gesticulation with either a fork or a knife in the hand. At a formal banquet in London several years ago an ambassador lost his napkin, which he had tucked under his chin, and his dinner partner gesticated with a knife.

It is true that all athletic training involves a certain amount of hypertension or overdevelopment of the right side of the heart, which pumps the blood to the lungs. When an athlete develops his "wind" or gets "second wind" that means that the right side of his heart has gained greater efficiency and is doing more work than it formerly could do without distress. It is for this reason that football, in my opinion, should be given once daily, or rather this quantity should be taken in the course of each day (in the drinking water) for about a month or two, and in the spring again, in the fall, for the prevention of goitre and the cure for beginning goitre.

I would like to have you tell me through your column whether it is harmful to eat raw potatoes. My son and I are both fond of chewing some raw potato nearly every day. Mrs. W. W. W.

Answer—it is harmless, and perhaps beneficial, except perhaps for children under four years of age.

The Cross-Cut

A Serial Story of the Colorado Mines

By Courtney Ryley Cooper.

Copyright by Little, Brown & Co.

SYNOPSIS
At Thornton Fairchild's death his son Robert learns the secret hidden a dark period of 20 years has caused him to suffer. The secret is hinted at in a document left by the elder Fairchild which also indicates Robert's child, which is now over 20, has a mining claim in Colorado and is asking him to see Henry Beauchamp, a lawyer.

Beauchamp tells Robert his claim is a silver mine and is against a certain man, "Squint" Rodaine, his father's enemy. Robert goes to the mining town and finds an old friend of his father's, Herbenfelder, the keeper of the boarding house where his father had stayed. He also rescues a girl from a predicament and turned away pursuers by giving them the wrong direction. Harry and Sam Herbenfelder, son of his father's, turn up and they visit the mine, only to find it filled with water. Finally, he also discovers that the girl he had rescued on the Denver road was the daughter of Squint Rodaine. Harry and Robert are warned to go home.

A day more and a day after that the water was now only a few feet high in the shaft. It means that the whole great opening together with the drift tunnel soon would be dewatered to an extent sufficient to permit of exploration. Again the motor car ground up the narrow roadway. Outside the tunnel the crowds gathered. Fairchild saw Anita Richmond and gritted his teeth at the fair young Rodaine accompanied her. Farther in the background, narrow eyes watching closely, was Squint Rodaine, still farther.

Fairchild passed as he noticed the figure plodding down the mountain side. He put out a hand, then, seizing the nervous Herbenfelder by the shoulder, whirled him around.

"Look!" he exclaimed. "Look there! Didn't I tell you? Didn't I have a hunch?"

For, coming toward them faintly, slowly, was Harry in beaming blue. A Federal in his head now, but with the rest of his wardrobe intact, yellow-bump-toed shoes and all. Some shouting. Everybody turned. And as they did so, the figure hastened its pace. A moment later a booming voice sounded, the unmistakable voice of Harry Hawkins.

"I say! What's the matter over there? Did somebody fall in?"

The putt of gasoline engines ceased. A moment more and the gurgling cough of the pumps was stilled; while the shouting and laughter of the great crowd sounded through the hills. A leaping form went forward. Sam Herbenfelder, to seize Harry, to pat him and paw him, as though in assurance that he really was alive, then to grasp wildly at the ring on his finger. But Harry waved him aside.

"Ain't I paid the installment on it?" he remonstrated. "What's the rumpus?"

Fairchild, with Mother Howard, both laughing happily, was just behind Herbenfelder. And behind them was thronging half of Oberlin.

"We thought you were drowned," said Harry, laughing bounfully again. "In a way that was infectious, we drowned, just because I let a 'oller' and dropped my 'at'."

"You did it on purpose?" Sam Herbenfelder shook a scrawny fist under Harry's nose. The big Cornishman waved it aside as one would brush away an obnoxious fly. Then he grinned at the townpeople about him.

"Well," he confessed, "there was an awful lot of water in there, and I didn't 'ave any money. What else was I to do?"

"You—" A pumpkin had picked up a piece of heavy timber and answered.

Dinner Stories

Charlie was cashier in a bank in a little country town. He had been engaged to May Brown, but alas, a rift came in the love!

"And please remember," said May, in tearfully, haughty tones, "that when hands back the ring, "that when we meet again we meet as perfect strangers."

A few days later the fair maid entered the bank to cash a check. Of course Charlie was on duty. He took the slip of paper, set it back and front, and then, instead of counting out the money, handed back the check.

His time for revenge had come.

"I'm sorry, madam," he said coldly, "but it is against the rules of the bank for the cashier to cash checks for perfect strangers. You find someone in town to identify you!"—Chicago Herald.

Pour over them the sauced meat, covered with the onion juice and soy or Worcester-shire sauce and sprinkle the choiced parsley on top. Soak the rice until it is soft enough to be found in some places where Japanese and Chinese products are sold.

Is your back giving out? Are you tired, miserable, all run down; tormented with nagging backache, lameness and sudden, stabbing pains? If so, look to your kidneys. Overwork, hurry and worry tend to weaken the kidneys. Backache and all worn-out feeling is often the first warning. Get back your health while you can. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy Janeville folks recommend. Ask your neighbor.

Here's a Janeville Case:
J. T. Waggoner, proprietor of furniture store, 21-S. River St., says: "I took cold and it settled on my kidneys and my bladder became very much inflamed. The kidney secretion passed too often. My back was weak and very painful. I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they helped me from the first. When I had finished the second box, I was well."

COACHES TO COME HERE WEEK EARLY TO START PLANS

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR.

READING an account of what the Detroit Tigers and the White Fox are going to do in the pennant races for 1922, like listening to the lad of old tell what he is going to do when he grows up. Who can tell before the end of the 1922 season what is going to happen 14 months hence? What the public is really interested in is what will happen in the present strenuous campaign. It is just as poor policy to shoot this buck as it is to spend your money before you earn it.

New State Enthused

The new coaches, V. E. Klotz and H. B. Warfield, will be present. They are coming here early in order to get a head start on organization of the team and make the 1922 season a successor to the excellent one of last year.

The shows the intense interest of the new staff.

Cochrane Verfield will have charge of football. He has been coaching high and normal football in North Dakota during the past year and was principal at Mayville, N. D. During the summer now closing, he took a special course in football coaching at the University of Wisconsin.

The Veterans Left

Mr. Klotz, last year coach at Portage, will take charge of basketball and have authority over all athletics of the Blues. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and started his athletic career at Lawrence college.

Although 12 men of last year's team have graduated, seven of last year's stars will be back. King, the snappy little quarterback, will be back. So will Johnny Young, the smashing colored lad. Conry, who showed signs of promise at center, will be one of the veterans. The other veterans will be R. Leary and Seaman. Leary was just coming into his own as the season closed while Seaman showed valuable qualities.

When the call for candidates went out last year, if depended, it is expected that an equal number will don the duds this year.

Wanted to Camp

The school spirit jumped wonderfully in 1921. It was carried through the basketball year, and although it took a slight slump during the baseball season, should mean much in carrying the team forward to victory during the coming season.

Many were eager to send the pictures of the grid squad to Camp Rotarole for preliminary training this fall. This had to be dropped as a number of the lads are at work and could not afford to take the time off.

Footville Wins Two from Magnolia

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Footville—Taking a double header from Magnolia, Footville got revenge Sunday. The scores were 12 to 11 and 15 to 5. With Magnolia seven runs in the lead in the first half of the ninth in the first game, Footville started a slugging herd and made eight runs to nose out the visitors. Magnolia used three pitchers in the second game, which lasted seven frames. Vaughn starred with a homer, a triple and two singles. The teams meet at Magnolia next Sunday. Scores:

WEDNESDAY,

PRIMARY ELECTION NOTICE

OFFICE OF THE COUNTY CLERK, AUG. 23, 1922.

TO THE ELECTORS OF ROCK COUNTY:

Notice is hereby given that a Primary Election for State and County Officers is to be held in the several towns, wards and election precincts in the County of Rock on the 5th day of September, 1922, at which the officers named below are to be chosen. The name of the candidates for each office to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to this office, are to be given opposite the title of the office and under the proper designation, each in its proper column.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters: A voter upon entering the polling place, and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk, which must have endorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to the booth or compartment, and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for.

If the ballot be spoiled it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in the booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memorandum to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter. After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed endorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth, or compartment, gives his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballot to be placed in the box and pass out of the voting place. A voter who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of one or two election officers in marking the same, to be chosen by the voter, and if he declares that he is totally blind he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. The presiding officer may administer an oath, in his discretion, as to such person's disability. The party designations and candidates for the different offices are, for example as follows:

OFFICIAL BALLOT FOR PRIMARY ELECTION

Mark a cross (X) in the square at the right of the name of the candidate for whom you desire to vote, if it be there, that you wish to vote for in the proper place.

Said Primary Election will be held at the regular polling place in each precinct and the polls will be open in Janesville and Beloit at 6:00 in the morning and close at 8:00 o'clock in the evening. All other precincts from 9:00 A. M. to 5:30 P. M.

Given under my hand and seal at the Court House in the City of Janesville this 23rd day of August, 1922.

HOWARD W. LEE,
COUNTY CLERK.

TEACHERS CHOSEN FOR CITY SCHOOLS

21 New Faces to Be Seen—Only Two Vacancies Still to Be Filled.

With but two exceptions the faculty which will have charge of the Janesville public schools during the coming year has been selected by Sept. Frank O. Holt. He has experienced no trouble in getting teachers as he has had scores of applications for positions far in excess of the needs. As to high school teachers the opening of the new high school at the beginning of the second semester has been an incentive for teachers to seek a position in Janesville. The standards for salaries established during the past few years are being maintained.

Another encouraging thing in the reduction in the cost of living in Janesville, as far as the rooms are concerned. From $2.50 to $4 for single rooms and $5 for double rooms are being asked this year.

Principal W. W. Brown, new head of the high school, has outlined the program for the entire year and is rapidly perfecting an organization which will be to the advantage of the children. It is not expected there will be an increased enrollment in the high school this year. The conditions in the present building will be crowded enough if the enrollment is the same as last year.

17 New H. S. Teachers There will be 17 new faces among the high school faculty this year. There are few changes in the grade school department and all directing heads will return. A science teacher to succeed Thomas F. McDonald in the high school, and another assistant for the kindergarten department are yet to be selected, as well as a director for the boys' band which will be for the innovation in the school work.

The new members of the high school faculty selected to date is as follows: Principal, W. W. Brown, Stoughton; Edith Zander, Two Rivers; Evelyn Pickrell, Spokane, Wash.; Frank Cawley, Wilmington, Del.; Pauline K. Dillen, Cedar, Wis.; Mildred S. Mankell, Winona, Minn.; Harold B. Wharfield, Marshfield; Hazel Murphy, Delavan; Catherine Davies, Mineral Point; Leopold St. John, South Bend, Ind.; V. E. Klontz, Freeport, Ill.; Helma A. Keuhn, West Salem, Wis.; Lyman E. Jackson, Oregon, Wis.; Emerson H. Cole, Madison; Dorothy Ann Kropf, Madison; Greta B. Mason, Milwaukee; Bertha Mickelson, Black Earth, Wis.

The following high school teachers will return: Katherine Niemeyer, Madison; Josephine Jamieson, Shullsburg; Irene Bull, city; Hannah Morris, Dodgeville; Letta Venable, city; Vera Hough, city; E. S. Lamoreaux, city; Eunice Nelson, Edgerton; Hattie Cooper, Fond du Lac; Jennie Parker, Saulsbury; Marjorie Heffernan, Berlin; Ruth Weisiger, Arvada, Colo.; Hazel Keevey, city; Leo Battie, Milwaukee; Florence Babcock, Milwaukee, city; Miss Caroline Zelinsger, city; Helen Taylor, city; Jessie Almazan, city; R. F. D.; John Arthur, Beloit; Mrs. Hazel Menzies, city; Rosella Willigale, Juneau; Allen E. West, city; O. C. Wheeler, city; F. A. Wright, city.

4 New in Grade Supervising heads are J. M. Dorans, manual training; Miss Herdis Hanson, Milwaukee, music; Miss Bertha Rudersdorf, defective speech and hearing; and Miss Ber-da, art.

CABINET MAY TAKE HAND IN CAMPAIGN FOR CONGRESS.

ACT CRITICIZED

Fact of Secretary Having Acted as Counsel for Michigan Senator Cited.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.

Copyright, 1922, by The Janesville Gazette.

Washington.—Secretary Hughes, leader defending Senator Newberry, has started a good deal of talk here to the effect that President Harding will reverse himself and let members of the cabinet participate, after all, in the congressional campaign.

Not long ago some republicans from Ohio asked to have a keynote speech but the president made it clear that he did not think it dignified for a secretary of state to be making political speeches.

The republican national committee however did not share Mr. Harding's view and believed that the practice of a secretary of state was an important factor and hence the publication of Mr. Hughes' letter to a Jersey clergyman, clearing Senator Newberry of guilt in connection with his election.

Unethicist is Charge.

The democrats are astir about it. The broadside issued by Cordell Hull, chairman of the democratic committee, in which he pointed out that the senate itself had adopted a resolution disapproving the manner by which Mr. Newberry was elected, undoubtedly followed by further bombardment by the democrats. They were getting out Wednesday, for instance, that Mr. Hughes acted as counsel for Senator Newberry and as such must have received a large fee and that it was unethical for him as secretary of state to issue a statement defending a client from whom he probably at one time received money.

If Mr. Hughes were still a practicing attorney he could enter the discussion they said, without being subject to criticism but as secretary of state, the democrats argued that the School Population Still on Up Grade, Attendance Officer's Report Shows

Janesville's school age population has its own during the past year, though not in increasing number of children under a year age. This is the most encouraging fact to be found in the report of Miss Rosemary Enright, attendance officer of the Janesville public schools, who has just completed the annual census, which has formed the basis for an analysis of school conditions.

MANY WHITEWATER FOLK AT REUNION

Interesting History of Rogers Family Given at Big Event.

Whitewater—A family reunion which drew more than 90 people from Southern Wisconsin was held Saturday in Lincoln Park, Monroe.

Sunday attending from Whitewater were Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Patton and daughters, Clara, Theo and Mary, and son, Weston Patton. Mr. Patton gave a history of the Rogers family which is traceable for more than 400 years from John Rogers who was born in England in 1500 and was buried at the stroke of 65 years later, during the first martyr in the reign of Bloody Mary. In the earlier history of the family the inscription on its coat of arms was "We and Ours to God."

Noah Rogers, the son of John the Martyr, was the father of John Rogers of Dedham, England, and his son Thomas Rogers was the 18th signer of the Mayflower compact. He landed on Plymouth Rock with the Pilgrim fathers and his descendants were prominent in early colonial history, serving in the wars of 1776 and 1812; also in the later wars of 1861 and the World war.

It was the Dickerson Rogers branch of the family, his descendants and relatives, who gathered for this reunion, and they plan to meet again in Monroe.

William Murnaugh has returned from his vacation spent in Neenah and Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Brockway will drive to Elkhorn, Ill., Thursday to see Mrs. Brockway's brother's family. They will spend the weekend at Cheloga. Mrs. Eugene Westcott accompanied them to Beloit to spend the day with her sister, Mrs. J. E. Kinsler.

The Joseph Koszyczarek family attended a wedding in Milwaukee over the weekend.

Miss Helen Bachelder has returned to her desk in the Century Pen office after a visit in Mayville, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Fliske and daughter, Virginia, and Mrs. Fliske's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Nash motored to Baraboo and Devil's Lake Saturday, returning Monday.

Next week Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Nash are to move into the house on Main street vacated by Mr. Dean Hackett. The house is owned by E. R. Hackett.

Miss Charlotte R. Wood, Appleton, came Monday to visit Whitewater friends for a week. She is the guest of Mrs. Bentley Darlison and Mrs. R. K. Coe. Miss Wood returned to the United States recently from her trip around the world, after completing three years' teaching in the Philippines. natural reply to the clergymen should have been a refusal to discuss the case because of his former connection with it.

Morse as Vacant

Some democrats are trying to draw a parallel between Mr. Hughes' position and reference to Senator Newberry and Attorney General Daugherty's position with reference to Charles W. Morse. Mr. Daugherty was instrumental in securing the pardon of Mr. Morse. He was practicing law at the time and had no connection with the government.

When a case involving Morse came before the department of justice, however, Mr. Daugherty is said to have promptly reminded those who were interested in the prosecution that a special assistant should handle the matter so that he himself would not be in an embarrassing position.

Mr. Hughes defended Senator Newberry before the supreme court of the United States, in which he was a member but a few years ago. He was not sure on technical grounds, which the democrats now say had nothing to do with the moral questions involved upon which the senate itself passed when it adopted a resolution condemning the large expenditure of money in the Newberry election. That's why Senator Ferguson and other democrats are so ready to attack the Hughes letter as being an effort to whitewash Senator Newberry.

Hughes' Standing Secure

The situation in democratic circles is, of course, due to the fact that the prestige of Charles Evans Hughes is well established and many people will accept his conclusions as final because they believe in his sincerity and probity.

The Hughes letter, however, will unquestionably figure in the campaign, as the democrats will endeavor to make capital out of the fact that Mr. Hughes was counsel of Senator Newberry and that his letter is therefore that of a prejudiced party.

Entirely apart from the merits of the Newberry case the chances of Mr. Hughes and other members of the Harding cabinet will be drawn into the autumn campaign, with standing the earlier resolution of President Harding to keep them out of it. The republican national committee—the value of marshalling cabinet members just as did the democratic national committee under the last administration.

President to Aid

Mr. Harding himself has said he would not take the stump for one and a series of letters from the president and his cabinet are certain to flow as soon as they are needed in specific localities or as an appeal to republicans everywhere just before the elections. It's true the administration has been trying to keep out of republican primary contests but this is no reason why the full weight of the administration's political power cannot be thrown into the campaign to save the republican congressional from the loss of too many seats.

PRANKISH RHONE MAY BE CONQUERED

France Would Make River Waterway Rival of Famous Rhone.

[By Associated Press.]

Washington.—"Whatever the fate of the French reparations proposal to set German labor to work at improving the Rhone, one thing is certain—necessarily the Rhone will approach more nearly to the Rhine as the most important commercial waterway of Europe," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The Rhine has an initial advantage. It is inherently more navigable than the Rhone. The latter seems as contrasted as the Rhine is placid in her matronly ways. Cascading in hoary fashion, falling from her craggy head in Alpine gorges, more than a hundred miles, the Rhone broadens into the dazzling beauty of Lake Geneva. Emerging therefrom she disappears prankishly under the rocks at Perte du Rhone, but, after emerging from this subterranean channel she becomes 'officially navigable' to her mouth."

"Not until the river passes Lyons does it become a beast of burden and even from Lyons to Arles traffic handicapped by swift currents and numerous islands, shifting river-bed and shingle banks. At Arles it loses all sense of elderly responsibility and goes preening itself into the triangular delta which outlines Camargue, the cowboy country of Southern France."

What hope then has Madenelle's Rhone for rivaling the stout Rhine alone, but the canalized Rhine which has stretched its tentacles over Central Europe. Likewise, it is not the Rhone but a prospective canalized Rhone which France is planning to develop.

"The Rhine and the Rhone may compare but, of course, cannot compete. If a craft is small enough it may thread its way from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean. The Rhine and Rhone have canal connections. But the basin of the northern seas and that of the lifeless Mediterranean are geographically distinctive and are likely to remain so. Therefore France is treating no neighbor toes which she hopes to make the Rhone a Rhine of the Mediterranean."

Much Romance: Little Legend'

"The romance of the Rhone tempts the romantic fact as does the Rhine with legend. Yet travelers do not follow the Rhone for any considerable distance as they do the Rhine. The Rhone offers a geographical range of appeal from the glaciers of Switzerland to the Africa in Europe scenes of Camargue. It is only a little more than 500 miles long, including 45 miles that count from Lake Geneva. In distance, little greater than that from New York to Buffalo, it rockets past snow clad mountains, courses through the land lost in the walnut and chestnut, flows amid one of the three greatest vineyard lands of France, widens out in more leisurely fashion in the zone of the mulberry tree, and then comes plump upon the tropic rice of the swamps in Camargue."

"Travellers go along the Rhine. They go along the Rhone. Hannibal began the practice, you will recall. The scene of battle in Europe has since spellbound by the memory of Geneva, city of Voltaire and Calvin and the 'Prisoner of Chillon,' birthplace of the Red Cross and home of the League of Nations. He has visited the city of looms when the great Lyons fair was in progress; has explored the antiquarian treasures of Arles with its palace of the Popes. Probably he has never seen the Rhone where Saint Maurice nestles among the snow-topped peaks, and has gone south to Arles, famous for a synos, a Venus, and a bull-ring which was once an amphitheater. Formerly great barges were floated from Lyons to Arles. These were pulled up the river again. Already considerable work has been done in regulating the Rhone above the delta, and a canal from the Gulf of Lion to the main stream has made river navigation which otherwise would have a difficult time in the sluggish lower branches. Canals connect the Rhone with the Loire and the Seine as well as with the Rhine."

Green Lake—Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, last year's women's golf champion of the state, had an easy time in the 1922 meet here Tuesday. She defeated Mrs. S. R. Boyce, Madison, 7 up and 6.

The National
Advertisement

"People in this country dress much better than they do in England," declared the manager of a great London store while here on a visit. Let's take this as something more than a compliment to our good taste—although that is vastly worth while. Well-dressed America is symbolic of the spirit of the nation—the outward expression of the self-respect that animates every American.

Good clothes are the national advertisement of the national pride. And thanks to our prosperity, good clothes are within the reach of every American.

Yarn of Beautiful "Princess Imprisoned in Tower Is Worn Out."

Grenada, Spain—Americans have quit going to Spain in search of the young and wealthy princess imprisoned in a dark, damp tower by a greedy uncle who is anxious to annex her fortune.

The historic old Spanish swindle apparently has gone out of fashion in the United States, but it is still in vogue in other parts of the world. Germany has recently supplied quite a crop of kind-hearted gentlemen, a crop of kind-hearted gentlemen of the dark-eyed Spanish beauty who was nothing but a rat-infested cellar, sickly, dying on a diet of dry bread and water while the bats hovered about her head and added to the terrors of her solitary confinement.

Grenada Is Mecca.

Grenada always was a popular center for the men who have contributed to the relief of imprisoned beauties. Washington Irving and scores of lesser writers have visited Grenada with hordes of beautiful women there, the city in the world. The legend of the Rose of the Alhambra and the stories of the three beautiful princesses, Zayda, Zorayda and Zorayha, hover about the Alhambra and make it the natural refuge for disappointed investors in distressed beauty.

Music-hall stars always have found the names of Moonish princesses profitable on playbills. They carry with them the atmosphere of the harem of the Sultan and the oriental dances. They suggest the Alhambra and millions of gold, and the priceless Moorish jewels which Boabdil and his court are believed in legend to have secreted in their beautiful palace before it was surrendered to Ferdinand and Isabella. Boabdil and his queen are supposed to be hiding in a cavern in the neighboring mountains waiting for a magic call from Mohammed which will restore them to their old glory in the Alhambra. Every tower, every turret, every minaret and every dungeon in the old Alhambra has its legend.

"Castles by Sea!"

So it is no strange that searchers for princesses should come to Grenada after having sought vainly for mythical castles in mythical mountains. Most of the modern Spanish princesses are being held captive in castles by the sea. Castles by the sea are so much damper, and then it is much more remote for rescue parties to approach the rocky coast in ships. It is easier to the imprisoned princess, who will promptly tear her cloths to bits and make a rope with which she will lower herself from the gloomy tower.

Many of the imposters who are marketing adventure to credulous investors give their princesses the names of famous women who have been dead for centuries. Cleopatra and Aishah, queens of the Moorish regime who have been dead for over 400 years, and many other celebrated historical figures have lent their names to princesses supposed to be in distress.

Dupes Keep Quiet.

Hoteleers in Grenada have become skilled in detecting visitors who are searching for imprisoned beauties. They usually make very guarded inquiries and seldom admit they have been duped. Frequently they inquire for gypsy fortune tellers or astrologers, and probably charge well for their services. Letters concerning the distressed princesses are usually marked strictly confidential and instructions are given that nothing must be said to anyone lest the life of the princess be endangered. Most of the dupes are too much ashamed of their plight to confess openly that they have been gulled, but an occasional victim approaches some of the foreign consuls or seeks the aid of the Spanish police in trying to recover money advanced to the swindlers.

GREEKS TO RESIST TURKS' ASIA RULE

Will Fight Allied Proposal to Evacuate Territory, Say Envoy.

A story of elaborate preparations by representatives of 1,000,000 inhabitants of Western Asia Minor to resist the efforts of the allied proposal that the Greek army evacuate that territory and permit the country to come under the rule of Mustapha Kemal Pasha has been brought to this country by Stephanos Beloyannis and Antonios Antilogiannis, sent here as official delegates of the Christian Ministry of defense, with headquarters at Smyrna.

"The decision of the allied Ministers places us in the dilemma of remaining in our homes in Asia Minor and being butchered by the Turks or leaving our homes and following the Greek army as refugees," said Mr. Eisenglass, spokesman for the mission, in an interview at the Hotel Commodore.

"We will choose neither course. We have decided that when the Greeks army evacuates Asia Minor we will remain, protect our homes and our families and die to the last man rather than surrender to the blood-thirsty Kemalists."

Have lost 50,000 men.

"We now have 35,000 men in the Greek army. We are recruiting our forces so that they may eventually reach 100,000. We have organized gendarmerie of 25,000 as a reserve force. On our way to the front we will be able to compare life under Greek rule with that of the Turks. We will be among the first numbers by Circassians who are Greeks."

Will Protect Home.

"We have lost 50,000 men on the battlefields of Asia Minor. Those men died to free western Asia Minor from the Turks. Many Turks have escaped permission for their landing to come to Smyrna and other parts of western Asia Minor, away from Turkish misrule."

GOVERNMENT ASKS SHIPPING HEARING

Supreme Court Definition of Fleet Corporation Is Assailed.

[See Associated Press.]

Washington.—Asserting there is an apparent "irreconcilable conflict between the doctrine" announced by the supreme court in its recent decisions defining the emergency fleet corporation and "the little fleet," established by the court in a number of prior decisions, the government has filed a petition asking for a hearing.

The opinion had introduced a practical difficulty of far-reaching effectiveness with reference to the administrative "action" of various government officials, the petition asserts. It asks whether contracts made by the fleet corporation are contracts of the United States and what authority the shipping board or fleet corporation has to use further government funds for payment of the debts of the fleet corporation when incurred under contracts made by it.

It Is No Assets

The government also wants to know whether treasury officials are justified in honoring checks drawn by the fleet corporation for paying debts or satisfying claims for damages.

It is pointed out in the petition that the fleet corporation, in its own capacity and not as representing the United States, has no assets, but it has enormous debts which the court stated "are its debts and not the debts of the United States." It is explained there are hundreds of such claims pending against it, for sums aggregating more than $100,000,000, "and the court is asked whether all payments thereon from treasury funds must be suspended."

Whose Money Is It?

The government also wants to know whether funds derived from the sale of ships can be applied by the fleet corporation to payment of damages claimed against it, or whether the money belongs to the United States. As the opinion will become the guide for United States district courts in dealing with hundreds of suits throughout the country, the government asks for a re-argument as a means of preventing "many future appeals and much litigation apparently now inevitable."

300 BREEDERS AT GENEVA PICNIC

Two-County Holstein Affair is Success—Kelley Is Speaker.

Three hundred breeders and their friends, 50 of whom were from Rock county, enjoyed a joint picnic at the beautiful Walowls stock farm on the shores of Lake Geneva of the Walworth and Rock County Holstein Breeders' association. The meeting, which had been declared to be one of the finest addresses on the dairy as a profitable business ever given. The speaker was John M. Kelley, formerly with the Ringling Bros. Circus and vice president of the National Holstein Breeders' association. Advertising was the main point stressed by Mr. Kelley.

L. L. Oldham, secretary of the Wisconsin Holstein Breeders' association, J. A. Crisp, president of the Rock County Holstein breeders; E. A. Svoboda, president, and Ben Bachhuber, secretary of the Walworth breeders, had charge of the arrangements. Boyd Dickinson, owner of the Walowls farm, proved a splendid host.

In the morning the large farm with wonderful herds housed in the most up-to-date barns was inspected and a stock judging contest staged. There was a program of games and contests, which wound up with a baseball game between Rock and Walworth county teams. Music was furnished by an orchestra and lunch was served under the trees along the lake shore.

IN THE CAMPAIGN

Gov. J. J. Blaine, speaking at Crivitz, Wis., urged all La Follette republicans turn out to the polls on primary day, Sept. 5, expressing the fear that "over-confidence" of our friends would create an apathy that will keep many of them from the polling booth."

The La Follette candidates, in talking about large "slush funds," in Wisconsin are trying to raise a smoke screen to distract the attention of voters from the fact that they refused to amend the corrupt practices act, as pledged in the republican platform, in a manner that would prevent them from having a larger sum of money spent to elect radicals." Attorney General William L. Morgan said in a speech in Milwaukee. Dr. W. A. Ganfield, candidate for U. S. senator with the endorsement of the committee of 44, will campaign in Dane county Aug. 28. He will speak at Middleton, Menomonie, Mt. Horeb, Beloit, Oregon and Stoughton.

Statement of the governor. "We are attributing success of the filled-mail bill to La Follette republican members of the legislature who were said to be without foundation by John P. Baker in a speech at Marshfield. The real facts are that Riley S. Young, when speaker of the assembly, drafted the first filled milk bill," he said.

Riley S. Young and Oscar Christensen, a Norwegian minister, spoke on the same platform with La Follette and Durand Tuesday.

Dozen More Teachers Are Needed in Rock County, Assertion.

The first sign that the summer is fast waning as far as youth is concerned, will be the opening next week of about five of the rural schools in Rock county. A large portion of them will open the following week in accordance with the general practice throughout Wisconsin.

The rural schools in the county according to the information from the county superintendent's office need 12 more school teachers. These will undoubtedly be engaged during the next week. The general standard of salaries is being maintained but in several instances teachers signing for another year have accepted slight decreases.

About 80 children will examine papers for various subjects in which they were not proficient at the regular yearly examinations for diplomas at the courthouse Tuesday. Those passing will be awarded diplomas.

HOOVER PRESENTS COAL PRICE REGULATIONS PLANS

Washington.—Alternative plans for the maintenance of fair prices for coal and for its equitable distribution during the past twelve years were presented to President Harding today by Secretary Hoover!

One plan, as presented for the president's approval, was undertaken to provide for the creation of a federal fuel distribution agency along the lines of the voluntary machinery operating under Federal Fuel Distributor Spencer.

It also would authorize the Interstate Commerce commission to assume greater powers in the assignment of freight cars.

The other proposal is understood to provide for the creation of a coal purchasing corporation which would stabilize fuel prices by the fixation of a fair price for coal bought and sold by the government.

MECHANICS FOR RAILROAD SHOPS

Lansing, Mich.—Gov. Alex J. Groves Wednesday revived his plan to take over and operate under state control a coal mine at Unionville in the Saginaw district to relieve the acute fuel shortage facing state institutions. An option on the property binding for sixty days has been obtained, and the option, the mine, estimated to contain 1,000,000 tons of coal could be purchased for $150,000. Maximum capacity of the mine is 500 tons a day and all fuel mined would be sent to state institutions if it was announced.

NOVEL PROGRAMS FOR VISITORS' DAY

Exhibits, Races, Contests at Five Playgrounds, Thursday.

This being the last week of the 1922 playground season, the second annual "visitors' day" will be observed at the five grounds, Thursday, with novel programs arranged. The public is invited.

Perhaps the most novel program has been drawn up for the afternoon at the Jefferson school, from 1 to 5 p.m., by the Jefferson playground committee of which Mrs. G. M. Hutton, was a visitor in Edgerton, on Monday.

Miss Jeanette Hubbell is spending the week at Lake Kegonsa with Albert Rader and family.

Dr. James Johnson of the U. W. Horticultural Department at Madison, was a visitor in Edgerton, on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hadden and family and Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Barnes and family, are camping at Rock river.

Albert Muffley of the Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter is having a week's vacation.

The Ladies' society of the Congregational church will hold an ice cream social near the band stand, Thursday Aug. 21.

Dr. and Mrs. Southworth are the parents of a daughter, born Monday night.

The Rev. M. R. Brandt, formerly of Edgerton, and now of Sheboygan, returned home Tuesday after a short visit with relatives here.

Storing North, who was taken ill last week, is in a serious condition, one leg being paralyzed.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. B. Anderson, Tuesday.

Miss Clara Amundson has returned to her duties at the T. & T. Motor company, after a two-weeks vacation.

Mr. Peter Anderson returned to her home Monday, after a few days' visit at Lake Kegonsa and Brooklyn, Wis.

Mr. Grant Walworth was a Janesville visitor Monday.

The V. Y. C. club who have been camping at Lake Kegonsa for the last two days returned Tuesday.

The Marquette club gave a six o'clock dinner party at the home of Mrs. Frank Kellogg in honor of Alice Mooney, who will soon become the bride of John Collins. The evening was spent playing bridge.

Every ex-service man in Union station is requested to be at the Legion room at 12:30 p. m. Thursday in uniform, with black neckties. Without blouses. Local business men will furnish cars and take the band and ex-service men to Beloit to take part in the state convention parade.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Business at the marriage license bureau in the county clerk's office seems to be picking up from the slump which always follows the June 4th wedding season, and parents are asked to make their appointments early.

Mr. Edmund Enright, formerly of Janesville, who spent a year and a half in the little accessible South American country representing the Irving National bank of New York, Enright spoke before the Rotary club here.

The Panama canal incident, he said, put the United States in a bad light with Colombia and other South American countries where the action of this government is termed "despicable" Colombia.

Mr. Enright explained at length the geographic characteristics of the country and the difficulties of transportation because of mountainous terrain. The mule is the best means of travel, although Germans are introducing the airplane.

Orphans would accept the certificate of marriage.

The next plan, he went on, is the vocational training aid under which the government would advance the amount due a soldier on the basis of $1 a day for domestic service and $1.25 a day for foreign service, to be applied towards his vocational training.

The final option is the farm or home aid, by which the sum due the veteran would be advanced to him as might be necessary to be applied towards the purchase of a home or a farm.

SOLDIERS SATISFIED

The bill, as reported, is satisfactory. It ought not to be injurious to the soldiers, confirmed Mr. Enright.

Mr. Warner maintained that the miners balked even at recommendation arbitration subject to acceptance or rejection by either side within 10 days after the arbitrators' recommendations were submitted.

Mr. Lewis' statement in setting forth the miners' objections to arbitration in any case proposed by the operators, was similar to the United States railway labor board, which had furnished an objectionable example by blundering failure to function with proper regard for the workers' rights."

"The miners have declined to pursue peace at any price," he said.

WE KNOW YOUR CAR

Explaining the provisions of the bill, as reported, he said the cash provision had been eliminated except in the case of veterans entitled to $1 or less with the total of these payments estimated at $16,000,000 to be paid next year and that in its place had been substituted a certificate of loan privileges.

Future of the Railroad Labor Board

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington — The fate of the railroad labor board hangs in the balance as one of the results of the strike. A proposal to abolish the board is under consideration and may devolve into one of the big fights in congress this winter. It is also suggested that the headquarters of the board be moved from Chicago to Washington. Many labor leaders make no secret of their desire that the railroad labor tribunal be eliminated as a factor in industrial relations. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is conspicuous among them. They believe there should be no governmental interference in the controversies between employer and employees, which combats the idea that there should be any limitation of the right of workers to strike, and which resists all propositions looking to compulsory arbitration.

Some of the more powerful of the railway executives are wholly in sympathy with these views. They are the "bitter enders" who have been fighting organized labor for many years and who believe all conflicts between capital and labor should be fought out to a finish. The only kind of industrial peace they regard as desirable is that which comes when one side or the other has been beaten into complete submission.

These opponents of the railroad labor board predicted its failure when the transportation act of 1920 was passed. Needless to say, they have not done their utmost to make the board a success. Friends of the board, in congress and out therefore, will not adopt a policy of non-resistance in the face of the promised assault on it, but will counter with a movement to give the board increased powers to put teeth into the law, as they express it.

The board was organized in April, 1920, and its first task was a wage case in which it granted increases all along the line. This decision was accepted by the management of the various railroads. However, it was while this case was pending that the controversy was started that was the first menace to efficacy of the new law and the new tribunal. During federal operation of the roads, a national agreement covering rules and working conditions had been negotiated between the unions and the railroad administration and national boards of adjustment, bipartisan in character, had been established to settle differences which might arise under the agreement. As soon as the railroads were returned to private control, it was made clear that the railway executives would fight the national agreement. It was also apparent that, whereas the new law provided for the creation of national adjustment boards similar to those that had functioned under government operation, the executives were determined none should be established.

Officials of the railway labor organizations asked the executives to meet with them and arrange for the adjustment boards. The executives replied the new law did not make the establishment of these boards compulsory and they would not agree to any such agencies on a national basis. They indicated a willingness to establish regional boards or boards on individual railroads or systems.

These adjustment boards were intended to handle the almost innumerable cases of minor importance which would swamp the railroad labor board if the subordinate agencies were not created. The railway workers, therefore, charged that the executives were deliberately trying to break down the law and make it impossible for the railroad labor board to function efficiently. Whatever justification there was for this charge it is a fact the board was deluged with cases which it should never have had to consider and that this was the beginning of bad feeling between the executives and the leaders of the workers. The railroads asked that the national agreement be abrogated. Officials of the unions offered to meet the executives in national conference and negotiate a new agreement based on the old one. The executives declined.

This controversy then went to the railroad labor board and, while it was pending, many of the railroads announced that they intended to reduce wages. The board ruled that no wage reductions should be put into effect until it had heard the case and rendered a decision. In spite of this, a few ignored the board's ruling and undertook to make wage reductions immediately effective. The board has no authority to enforce its decisions, but its members did their utmost to persuade the railway executives to abide by them.

We recognize the fact that we have a complicated and botched system of food distribution and speculation is one of the factors that keeps it so. The path from the farm to the consumer should be cleared of the obstructionists. That is easy to say and has been repeated for many years by many able men as well as agitators who have never gone farther than to make the association and by others who did not know a plow handle from a hay rake. Political formulas have accomplished nothing here any more than they have in settling the coal distribution, which Mr. Hoover points out is the most inefficient and evil of all. The central market in municipalities operated under municipal control have not solved the problem. Here farm products, fruit and vegetables, are shipped to farm distributing agencies. But the housewife will not go to market. The telephone is used and the delivery wagon brings the orders to the door. She pays for the gasoline and the wage of the driver with a trifle for deterioration of property and indulges against the high cost of living and naively wonders why the farmer does not accumulate a vast fortune.

Costly and elaborate systems of handling, delivery from one shipper to another, distribution to retailers and then to the consumer, have grown up on the demand of the housekeeper in order that she may be relieved of all labor and trouble in marketing for her table. Farmers ought to be their own middlemen and cut that part of the cost out at the beginning. We shall eventually get some such system of distribution as will prevent, as is the case right now, peaches rotting in New Jersey only a few miles from the larger cities of the country. There will eventually be a great farmer market at the doors of every city with proper distributing agencies. Until the city dweller is content to return to the simpler method of marketing for the table—go to the market and deliver the goods they buy themselves—we will have to be content with the machinery which must and will be sooner or later established by farmers for the orderly and systematic distribution of products, eliminating the speculator and the repeated handlings.

But we wonder if the average housewife ever stopped to think when she complains of the high price of fruit and vegetables, how much she contributes for service and how little the farmer or producer got from her for the work he did on the production?

"At least," says Germany, "it must be said we made our mark in the world."

WHERE IS THE HOPE OF THE WETS?

It might be well for the wets who are making a campaign on that issue to look over the figures in congress and see what they are up against. We have had several primaries and many congressmen have been nominated. So far there has not been a great overturn of the drys and no gains to speak of for wets. That is surely true of the south and west. There must be at least 124 new members of the house before the Volstead law can be overturned. It will be necessary to elect 30 wet senators and not even the most sanguine feels that this can be accomplished. It must be remembered, also that in a number of the senatorial contests now going on, the wet and

BILL'S IDEAS

Bill thought the world would be all right if all the men were Bill. If all would till the patches of ground the way he did, tills. If Jim and Joe and Jack and George would only change their ways. The troubles of the world would end and peace would rule our days.

Bill used to talk by night and day about the wrongs he saw. To curb his neighbor's greed for gain there ought to be a law.

There ought to be a law to stop the man across the street From changing money for his hay, and money for his wheat.

The troubles of the world are great, the government is lame, Here sits a silly ass bound and someone is to blame.

If men in power and men with wealth, and men of high degree Would change their ways, and be like Bill, a happy world 'twould be.

Bill's garden wasn't much to see; in fact the ground was bare. And running wild with ugly weeds he never knew was there.

And when Bill had a thing to sell, though 'tis greed's a dreadful vice, Bill wanted all that he could get and asked a fancy price!

Bill could have helped the world a bit by cleaning up his yard. He could have won with little toll his neighbor's high regard:

But Bill was satisfied with Bill, and so he spent his days Insisting that his neighbors should be forced to change their ways.

Is it proper in polite society to gesticulate with a fork in your hand?

The observation required by good breeding does not allow gesticulation with either a fork or a knife in the hand. At a formal banquet in London several years ago an ambassador lost an ear because his dinner partner gesticulated with a knife.

It is good breeding to stare at a lady on a beach in a one-piece bathing suit?

The conventional rules of polite society allow you to stare as much as you want to. Why do you suppose the lady put it on?

A Brooklyn colored man was all beaten up and the judge advised him to keep out of bad company. "I ain't yo' yo' honor," replied the man. "I ain't got enough money together to oblige a doo-gee."

The Bull Moose tracks seem to be mixing up the Republican trail somewhat, and, in some localities wiping it out entirely.

Who's Who Today

JOHN W. DAVIS

The legal training of John W. Davis, newly elected president of the American Bar Association, has served him in many ways. Davis, former U. S. Ambassador to Great Britain, was admitted to the bar in 1892, three years after he was graduated from Washington and Lee University.

His first work after becoming a lawyer was as an assistant professor of law at W. and L. He filled that position for a year and then opened law offices in Clarkesburg, W. Va., his home city.

In 1899, he was elected to the West Virginia house of delegates. He served as delegate to the Democratic convention in 1904. In 1911 he entered the national legislature as a congressman and was serving his second term when he resigned to become solicitor general of the U. S.

His tact and diplomatic skill led President Wilson to name him ambassador to Great Britain to succeed Walter Hines Page. He was serving as head of the American delegation at the Bern conference between America and Germany on treatment of prisoners when named ambassador.

He was talked of as a possible choice of the Democrats for the presidential nomination at the San Francisco convention.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

August 23, 1882.—The Myers Opera house was filled last night to see John Dillon, an old favorite in this city, in "State's Attorney." The play was poor, however, due to others appearing and a different production is to be put on tonight—James Mills, who has been practising with Dr. Palmer, left for Chicago this morning to pursue his medical studies.—Mrs. C. B. Conrad arrived from Europe today.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

August 23, 1892.—The Marzuff Shoe company, one of the city's leading industries, is going to move to Aurora, according to rumors. Mr. Marzuff states there is neither room nor the railroad facilities here that he needs.—Oak Lawn hospital is now ready for business. It is reported, the moving having been completed.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

August 23, 1902.—The second annual interstate fair at Beloit closed today with an attendance of 25,000. The Fox River bridge, spanning the Mississippi river at Spring Bay, on McKay's bottom, has been completed and will be opened next Tuesday.—Don Farms, fourth president of the Hough-Borch-Schade corporation, which has decided to locate here, will put his proposition before the Business Men's association in a few days.

TEN YEARS AGO

August 23, 1912.—Secretary J. C. Kline of the city Y. M. C. A. is on the program at the state meeting to be held at Phantom lake. Among the bargains offered for Saturday are watermelons, 25 cents each; peaches, 25 cents a basket; pears, 25 cents dozen; sweet corn, 10 cents dozen; 20 pounds sugar $1.; bushel potatoes, $1.; and eggs, 22 cents dozen.

A MORNING PRAYER

The sad householder looking at the empty coal box exclaims, "It might have bin."

Hiram Johnson is having a hard time in California. Johnson is handicapped in a reputed alliance with Hearst who has several newspapers in California, and the opposition of Hiram to the Four Power treaty which has settled the Japan question in California, is another load he is carrying. On the other hand his opposition is lessened by a weak candidate.

It seems to grow increasingly difficult for a true and scholarly gentleman like Jack Dempsey to get a hearing.

THE STRONG MAN DIES YOUNG

A reader sends this query: Concerning the wrestler, who died recently, if he was still growing rapidly, for such boys cannot safely "train" in a few weeks, as is carelessly attempted in too many schools, without seriously endangering their hearts, which are already taxed to keep pace with the rapid growth.

I find that a similar idea is very prevalent. Although great strength is attained in the young, the man of high degree. Would change their ways, and be like Bill, a happy world 'twould be.

Bill used to talk by night and day about the wrongs he saw. To curb his neighbor's greed for gain there ought to be a law.

There ought to be a law to stop the man across the street From changing money for his hay, and money for his wheat.

The troubles of the world are great, the government is lame,

Here sits a silly ass bound and someone is to blame.

If men in power and men with wealth, and men of high degree Would change their ways, and be like Bill, a happy world 'twould be.

The Cross-Cut

A Serial Story of the Colorado Mines

By Courtney Ryley Cooper.

SYNOPSIS

At Thornton Fairchild's death his son Robert learns of his father's life which for almost 30 years has caused him suffering. The secret is hinted at in a document left by the elder Fairchild, which also informs Robert of his own ownership of a claim in Colorado, and advising him to see Henry Beauchamp, a lawyer.

Beauchamp tells Robert his claim is a secret, and warns him against revealing it to his father's enemy, Robert, goes to the mining town and finds an old friend of his father's—Mother Howard. Robert is leading a hard life when his father had stayed. He also rescues a girl from a predicament, and turned away pursuers by giving them the wrong direction. Harry, an old comrade, is the son of a salaried man who has come up and they visit the mine, only to find it filled with water. Fairchild also discovers that the girl he had rescued is the daughter of Rodaine, Harry and Robert are warned to go home.

A day more and a day after that the water was now only a few feet high in the shaft; it meant that the whole great opening, together with the drift tunnel, soon would be dewatered to an extent sufficient to permit of exploration. Again the motor cars ground round the new roadway. Outside the tunnel the crowds gathered. Fairchild saw Anna Richmond and gritted his teeth at the fact young Rodaine accompanied her. Farther in the background, narrow eyes watching closely, was Squat Rodaine. And still further...

Fairchild gasped as he noticed the figure plodding down the mountain side. He put out a hand, then, seizing the nervous Herbenfelder by the shoulder, whirled him around. "Look! That Didn't I tell you? Didn't I have a hunch?"

For, coming toward them jauntily, slowly, was a figure in beaming blue, a Fadura on his head now, but with the rest of his wardrobe intact, yell low, bump-toed shoes and all. Some one shouted. Everybody turned. And as they did so, the figure hastened its pace. A moment later, a booming voice sounded the unmistakable voice of Harry Hartings.

"What's the matter over there? Did somebody fall in?" The puffing of gasoline engines ceased. A moment more and the surging cough of the pumps was stilled, while the shouting and laughter of a great crowd sounded around the hills. A leaping form went forward, Sam Herbenfelder to seize Harry, but pat him and pull him as if in assurance that he really was alive, then to grasp wildly at the ring on his finger. But Harry waved him aside.

"Ain't I paid the installment on it?" he remonstrated. "What's the rumpus?"

Fairchild, with Mother Howard, both laughing happily, was just behind Herbenfelder. And behind them was thronging half of Oberlin.

"We thought you were drowned."

"My dear daughter," boomed again, in a way that was just infectious. "I'm drowned, just because I let a older and dropped my 'at'."

"You did it on purpose?" Sam Herbenfelder shook a scrawny fist under Harry's nose. The big Cornishman waved it aside as one would brush away an obnoxious fly. Then he grinned at the townpeople about him.

"Well," he confessed, "there was an ugly lot of water in there, and I didn't have any money. What else was I to do?"

"You!" A pumpman had picked up a piece of heavy timbering and

Dinner Stories

Charlie was cashier in a bank in a little country town. He had been engaged to May Brown, but plus a rift came in the lute! They quarreled.

"And please remember," said May, in tempestuous tones, as she handed back the ring, "that when we meet again we meet as perfect strangers."

A few days later the fair maid entered the bank to cash a check. Of course, Charlie was on duty. He took the slip of paper, eyed it back and front, and then, instead of counting out the money, handed back the check.

Time for revenge had come!

"I'm sorry, madam," he said coldly,

"but it is against the rules of the bank for the cashier to cash checks for perfect strangers. You find someone in town to identify you?"—Chicago Herald.

"Hoy, there!" yelled Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge to an approaching motorist, "head them infernal children off, will you?"

The olive branches whom Mr. Johnson had been pursuing ducked out of the big road into the brush with yells of derision.

"What's the matter?" asked the strung-up Gap. "Did you intend to punish them?"

Their Aunt Lyddy from over at Tanderhook is coming this evening. She always wants to gather the children for some reason or other, and me and wife sort of aimed to get 'em scrubbed up for the aforesaid. Lyddy's got right sort of money, and bought lots of some if it she felt she was properly entertained."—Kansas City Star.

TODAY'S RECIPES

HAM AND POTATO CROQUETTES—Four mashed potatoes, two cups chopped boiled ham, both fat and lean mixed together and moistened with two beaten eggs. Make into balls, then roll into white of beaten eggs. Fry in the pan and fry in deep hot fat.

JAPANESE EGGS—One and one-half cups boiled rice, six hard-cooked eggs, one and one-half cups white sauce, one teaspoon onion juice, one teaspoon parsley, one teaspoon soy or Worcestershire sauce. Put the hot cooked rice on a platter. Cut the eggs in quarters and immerse in the rice. Pour over the onions, rice and soy or Worcestershire sauce and sprinkle with chopped parsley on top. Soak a saucer to be found in stores where Japanese and Chinese products are sold.

TELLIED APPLES—Select tart, juicy apples; pare and remove core with a corer or narrow-bladed knife. Place in a sauceron with boiling water, heat enough to cover them, putting a tablespoonful of white sugar in each apple. Cook until they are well done, but retain their form; then remove to the dish from which they will be served; to the juice add sugar in proportion of half a cupful of sugar to half a pint of juice to make a jelly, and pour over the apples. If a few pieces of the apple peel are stewed in the juice and removed before putting in the sugar they will give a nice color to the jelly.

SALMON IN A MOLD—One can of salmon, two eggs, four tablespoons melted butter, one-half cup fine bread crumbs, chopped parsley, salt, and pepper. Mince the fish, rub in the butter thoroughly, work in the bread crumbs, which should not be dried, add the seasonings and last the beaten eggs. Put in buttered mold, set in pan of hot water, cover pan and steam in the oven. Cook one hour. Serve with cream sauce to which you have added hard-boiled eggs.

SEGGESTIONS

To Cook One Cup Chicken. Put into a kettle one cup lard and one-half cup bacon fat. After the chicken is dressed and cut in pieces, add it to the fat and let it fry until fat and meat are both brown, stirring occasionally. Remove chicken from the pan and add one large onion, chopped fine, sage, pepper and salt to taste. Let this fry in the fat five minutes, then add two large tablespoons flour and let brown; then one-half pint can of tomatoes and plenty of water to cover the chicken (which has been added). Stew slowly until done, stirring often to prevent sticking.

A small strip of leather sewed on the inside of trouser cuffs will prevent the cloth from wearing out.

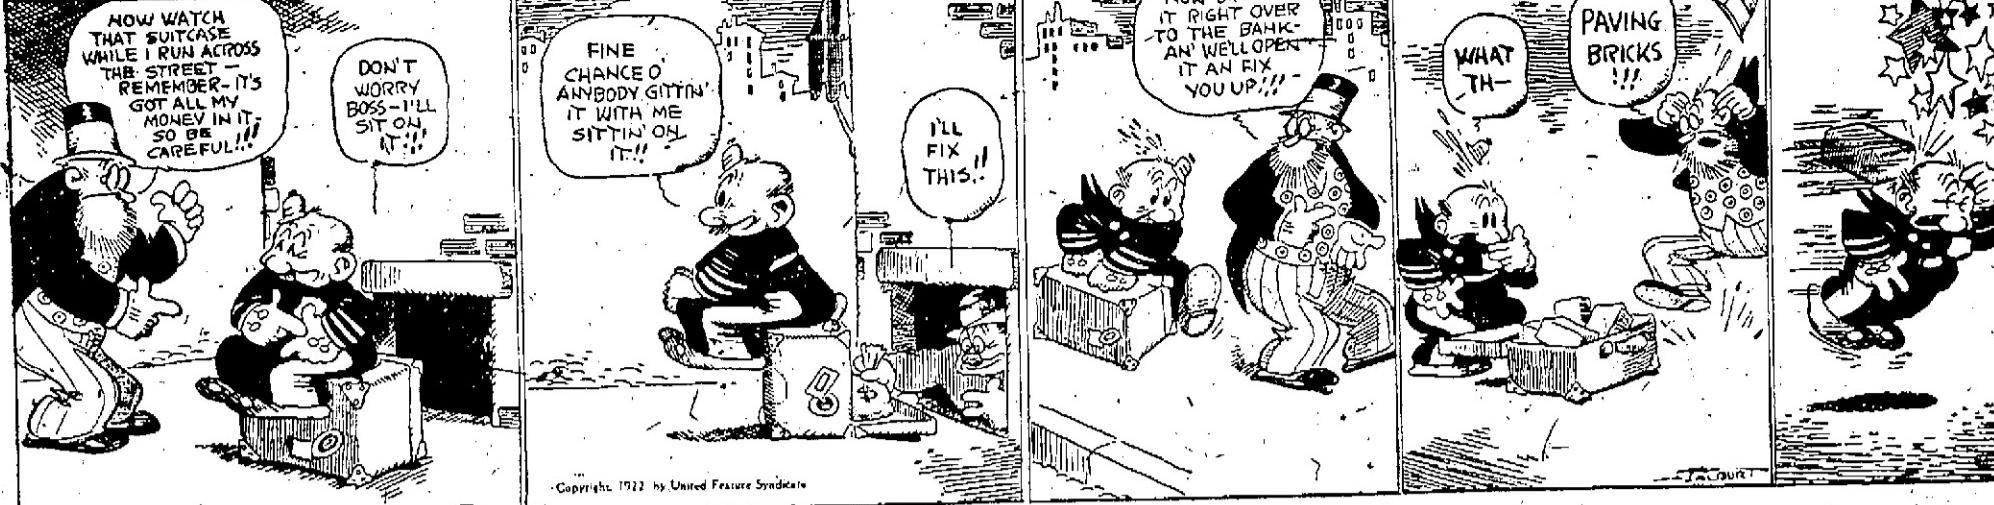

A red hot iron will soften putty so that it can be removed easily.

Allow just enough water to boil dry when boiling potatoes.

SHAPING THE EYEBROWS

The sharply defined, eyebrow is no longer in fashion. I refer to the artificially made line that requires many many tweezers pickings. This should be a boiler to the girls who have passed through that tedious experience.

While the extreme fashion for the severely fine line has gone, the eyebrow is still to be as symmetrical as formerly. This symmetry is not an impossible achievement for those with brows in which many hairs are out of alignment. The first thing is to train the hairs so they will fall into an arched line, after which it will only be a matter of ten strokes to draw the brows to keep them in place. A small brush can be purchased at any drug store, or a stiff tooth brush will answer.

Begin by brushing all hair that grows under the line of the brow and make the strokes both inward and outward. Conversely, brush all the hair that grows above the line, making the strokes downward and outward. A little practice will be needed as these strokes are intended to make all hairs firmly below the brow, except the exception after which it is only necessary to run the fingers over the line to shape it into a becoming curve.

If the hairs will not stay in place, moisten them at first with some thin mineral water. If there are still many hairs that break the symmetry of line, they will have to be taken out with the tweezers or clipped off; but this should not be attempted unless you disfigure. The idea now is merely a becoming and neatly arranged brow—not the sharply defined one of the past.

AUBURN—As it is easier to prevent freckles than to cure them, the best advice I can give is to rub the skin full of cream and use quite a little perfume before each trip on the water.

Discouraged—Biting the nails is a nervous habit which can only be overcome by exerting your will power.

"Hooray for revenge had come!"

"I'm sorry, madam," he said coldly,

"but it is against the rules of the bank for the cashier to cash checks for perfect strangers. You find someone in town to identify you?"—Chicago Herald.

Pull out the offending hairs.

You might try rubbing alum on them as a reminder since you will get the bite taste wherever you begin to bite. And keeping the nails manicured will help.

"You must show me," said Ned, still doubtful about making a camp large.

"I could make a dandy camp out of it!" said Ted, ignoring Ned's attempt at wit.

"Honestly?" Ted nodded. "Then I'll ask Mr. Peters for it." And Ned ran back to the saw mill and made a camp out of a log.

"It's quite willing," Ned said, smiling. "He had no use for the box—it had drifted down from the summer colony 10 miles above. And so Ted fastened a rope to it and the boys towed it back to the island. It was hard work rowing the boat and dragging the heavy box, but they managed it and got it up on the level ground above the beach by means of sapling rollers.

Before the week was over they had gathered enough lumber and secured some second-hand tarp paper and two old cold-frame windows from Mr. Peters and set to work.

"You might make him happy as I am," Ned said, "if you want to help. He bought me a watch for my Christmas present."

"I always make him happy as I can, but it doesn't seem to help. He bought me a watch for my Christmas present."

"He wants me to go over and see his people with him, but I told him I would not go to his home until his parents invite me over. Do you think I am right?"

"What makes me feel badly is that he flirts with every girl he sees, but he doesn't want me to go with other boys. Somehow I hate to give him up for I, I don't think I would want to live."

Ted and Ned had rowed over from rock and the "porch" was covered with old tarred paper and the place was as snug as any expensive cottage.

"No more worrying about rainy days," said Ted as he began to build an "emergency fire." "What he called an 'emergency fire' he had made a giant box boat, not far away. "It's a piano box," he exclaimed.

"What do you want with it?" asked Ned. "To keep your fish hooks in?"

"I could make a dandy camp out of it!" said Ted, ignoring Ned's attempt at wit.

Don't you think he did the right thing to drop him when I did?

Would it be correct and safe to go with him if he were to renew his attachment when he is single again?

It was only right for the young man to do so. But beware of rainy days.

GRAIN

Chicago Review.
Chicago—Trading in wheat was not large at the start Wednesday, local traders being inclined to await leadership on either side. The market was made of a few quotations after the opening and checked the early advances. Support came from commission houses on minor breaks. Receipts were estimated at 1,000,000 bushels for the day, which was at unchanged figures to 24 higher, with Sept. $1.02
50 @ 1.025, and Dec. 31.03 @ 1.035.
This was followed by a slight sag, all around, at 3% per cent.

Short covering was responsible for the bulge in wheat values to the high point, but toward the finish some instinct of stability was shown in evidence of the lack of outside help, and the market ended off with the in-tial unchanged to 24 higher, with Sept. $1.02 50 @ 1.025 and Dec. 31.03 50.

Rains in parts of Nebraska, Illinois and Indiana made corn easier at the start, but the market rallied quickly on reports of favorable conditions in Kansas. This holding, which varied from 24 to 26 lower, with Sept. 60 @ 1.02, was followed by a slight advance all around, then somewhat of a setback.

Country offerings of corn were only fair with the car situation the main influence in checking business. The initial range was 24 to 26 higher with Sept. 60 @ 1.02.

Outs started unchanged to 24 and held close to the initial range.

Football Practice for Local High School Starts Monday

COACHES TO COME HERE WEEK EARLY TO START PLANS

Busy Man's Sport Page

BY FRANK SINCLAIR.
READING an account of what the Detroit Tygers and the White Foxes are going to do in the pennant races for 1922 is like listening to the lad of six tell what he is going to be when he grows up. Who can tell before the end of the 1922 season what is going to happen 14 months hence? What the public is really interested in is what will happen in the present strenuous campaign. It is just as poor policy to shoot this bunk as it is to spend your money before you earn it.

New Staff Enthusiastic
The new coaches, V. E. Klontz and H. B. Warfield, will be present. They are coming here early in order to get the start on organization of the team and make the 1922 season a successor to the excellent one of last year.

This shows the intense interest of the new staff.

Couch Warfield will have charge of football. He had been coaching high and normal football in North Dakota during the past year and was principal at Minot, N. D. During the summer now closing, he took a special course in football coaching at the University of Illinois.

Mr. Klontz, last year coach at Portage, will take charge of basketball and have authority over all athletics of the Blues. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and started his athletic career at Lawrence college.

At least 12 men of last year's team have graduated several of last year's stars will return. Knapp, the snappy little quarterback, will be back. So will Johnny Young, the smashing colored lad. Conry, who showed signs of promise at center, will be one of the veterans. The other veterans will be Jimmie and Seaman. Leary has just come in from the service and is closer while Seaman showed valuable qualities.

With the call for candidates went out last year, 45 responded. It is expected that an equal number will don the blue this year.

Wanted to Camp
The school spirit jumped wonder fully in 1921. It was carried through the basketball year and although it took a slight sputter during the baseball season, it could mean much in carrying the team forward to victory during the coming season.

Plans were on foot to send the nucleus of the grid squad to Camp Rotardale for preliminary training this fall. This had to be dropped as a number of the lads are at work and could not afford to take the time off.

Slow Time Marks Madison Racing; Nichols Drives

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Madison — Of the three harness races here Tuesday, the opening day of the Wisconsin Grand circuit at the capital, two went to the heats before a decision was reached. The upset of the day came in the defeat of Donna Thompson, the mare which Thomas drove to a win in the 2:17 trot at Janesville, two weeks ago. Peter Alatian took the event with Thomas' loss coming in fourth.

Riley Pitcher, eighth in the 2:17 at the Bower city, annexed the 2:25 pace here in six heats. The time was slow, the deciding heat with R. Evelyn being paced in 2:32 1/4.

John Nichols, Sheboygan, former mayor of Janesville drove Calander in the two year old trot, coming in third. Jean Worthy, winner of this event at Janesville, repeated her "Thursday" program calls for four events. They are the 1:18, 2:00, 2:20, 2:20 trot, $1,000, $1,200 pace and 3 year old trot, $500.

Black Pussies and Moose Open City Series Sunday

YESTER-DAY'S RESULTS

Next Sunday at the Black Cat diamond on Washington street, the ball fans of the city will have an opportunity of seeing the first game in the series between the Janesville Moose and Janesville Black Cats, determining the city championship. Both of these teams are entirely made up of home boys, and each has a large following. No man who has not played with either team up to July 15 will be allowed in either lineup. In the first game Flemming will be substituted on the mound for Charley Bick in case of his absence from the city.

Both of these teams have developed into two of the best amateur organizations in this section, having defeated many of the teams in the surrounding country.

In the first game the batteries for the Black Cats will be Lambrecht and Gregson, all well known to local fans, while the Moose will have Dick, Fleming and Cuts.

Each team will furnish an umpire agreed on by both teams before the game starts. An effort will be made to secure the services of Chief Newman, an old player of the big show, to call balls and strikes. The grounds will be in the best of shape for the game. The battle will give the fans an idea of the progress of the team in the department. Each team is predicting a victory in the first start and a battle royal is promised.

Big Pow Wow and Huge Fete Booked for Fort Atkinson

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]
Fort Atkinson—Sept. 7 will be the biggest day in Fort Atkinson this year and the greatest since the Armistice. The Paul Frank Floris Post No. 165, American Legion, is to stage its first annual pow-wow lasting all day.

An unusual program has been arranged. As a topliner, the Famous Chicagoans with Woe Dickie Keni, former White Sox hurler, are to play the Fairbanks-Morse of Beloit at 2:30 p.m. This is the first time such a class attraction has been arranged for a town of this size. Faith Drifts to Win Tuesday in Geneva Races

Lake Geneva—Light breeze sailors had all the edge in the second day of the Inland Lakes regatta at Lake Geneva, Tuesday, when races were sailed with scarcely a breath of air. Faith, 35-foot boat owned by Gates and Burdette, and sailed by John Burdette or Oshkosh, drifted in a winner in the Class A twelve mile race, finishing just before 6 o'clock, after more than three hours of sailing. The first three boats to cross the finish line were:

Faith, time, 3:10; Kingfisher, 3:12; Mistral IV, R. E. Friend, Pine Lake, Hartland, Wis., time, 3:25.

The morning race for Class C catboats, was canceled after more than a hour of drifting when less than four miles of the six mile course had been covered. The William Walker's Delavan Lake boat, was leading when stopped.

Kingfisher which was second, Tuesday, also finished second Monday in the Class A events, and the day showing ranks the Gopher sloop high in the regatta percentages.

Dominy Features Swimming Meet; Girl Is Rescued

Winning, three firsts. Kenneth Dominy, a strong, steady swimmer, featured the first water meet ever held at Monterey. The meet was staged Tuesday afternoon at Bill's Beach, South Jackson street, and Rock river.

A fair crowd watched the proceedings. The tourney was sponsored by playground officials and the Gazette.

More than the 25 competitors would have taken part, it is believed, but for the escape from drowning earlier in the afternoon of Dorothy Woods. She swam out beyond her depth and was rescued by Guard "Darnay" Ross, none the worse for her swim.

Dominy showed his prowess early by coming from behind and winning the 25 yard dash for boys 8 to 10 years-old. Paired with Lawrence Smallbrook, he took the relay. He was defeated by a blur by Leonard Zobelski in the 50 yard swim.

M. Hill dove 25 feet off Jackie street bridge to take the high dive.

WEDNESDAY,

PRIMARY ELECTION NOTICE

OFFICE OF THE COUNTY CLERK, AUG. 23, 1922.

TO THE ELECTORS OF ROCK COUNTY:

Notice is hereby given that a Primary Election for State and County Officers is to be held in the several towns, wards and election precincts in the County of Rock on the 5th day of September, 1922, at which the officers named below are to be chosen. The name of the candidates for each office to be voted for, whose nominations have been certified to this office, are to be given opposite the title of the office and under the proper designation, each in its proper column.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters: A voter upon entering the polling place, and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk, which must have endorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to the booth or compartment, and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking a ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for.

If the ballot be spoiled it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in the booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memorandum to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter. After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed endorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth, or compartment, gives his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballot to be placed in the box and pass out of the voting place. A voter who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of one or two election officers in marking the same, to be chosen by the voter, and if he declares that he is totally blind he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. The presiding officer may administer an oath, in his discretion, as to such person's disability. The party designations and candidates for the different offices are, for example as follows:

TEACHERS CHOSEN FOR CITY SCHOOLS

21 New Faces to Be Seen—Only Two Vacancies Still to Be Filled.

With but two exceptions the faculty which will have charge of the Janesville public schools during the coming year has been selected by Supt. Frank O. Holt. He had experienced no trouble in getting teachers as he had had scores of applications for positions, far in excess of the needs. As to high school teachers the opening of the new high school at the beginning of the second semester has been an incentive for teachers to seek a position in Janesville. The standards for salaries established during the past few years are being maintained.

Another encouraging thing is the reduction in the cost of living in Janesville as far as the rooms are concerned. From $2.50 to $4 for single rooms and $5 for double rooms are being asked this year.

Principal W. W. Brown, new head of the high school, has outlined the program for the entire year and is rapidly perfecting an organization which will be to the advantage of the children. It is not expected there will be an increased enrollment in the high school this year. The conditions in the present building will be crowded enough if the enrollment is the same as last year.

17 New H. S. Teachers.—There will be 17 new faces among the high school faculty this year. There are few changes in the grade school department and all directing heads will return. A Science teacher to succeed Thomas F. McDonald in the high school, and another assistant for the kindergarten department are yet to be selected, as well as a director for the boys' band which will be the innovation in the school work.

The new members of the high school faculty selected to date is as follows: Principal, W. W. Brown; Stoughton; Edith Zander, Two Rivers; Evelyn Pickrell, Spokane, Wash.; Frank Cerveny, Wilmington, Ill.; Freda K. Dietzler, Cadott, Wis.; Mildred S. Mandell, Biwabik, Minn.; Harold B. Wharfield, Marshfield; Hazel Murphy, Delavan; Catherine Davies, Mineral Point; Leono St. John, South Beloit; Mrs. E. Klontz, Freeport, Ill.; Helen A. Kuhn, West Salem, Wis.; Lyman E. Jackson, Oregon, Wis.; Emerson H. Cole, Madison; Dorothy Ann Kropf, Madison; Greta E. Mason, Milwaukee; Bertha Mickelson, Black Earth, Wis.

The following high school teachers will return: Katherine Neuber, Madison; Josephine Jamieson, Shullsburg; Irene Bell, city; Hannibal Morris, Dodgeville; Lela L. Able, city; Vera Holm, city; E. S. Lamontaux, Wis.; Berice Nelson, Weston; Katie Cooper, Fond du Lac; Jennie Parker, Shullsburg; Marjorie Heffernan, Berlin; Ruth Welsinger, Aurora, Ill.; Mabel Keese, city; Leon Battig, Milwaukee; Mrs. Florence Babcock, Milwaukee, city; Miss Caroline Zelinger, city; Helen Taylor, city; Jessie Monales, city; R. F. John, Arbutchuk, city; Miss Ruth Menzies, city; Rosalie Miller, Juneau, city; O. A. Wright, city; F. A. Wright.

4 New in Grade.—Supervising heads are J. M. Dorans, manual training; Miss Herdis Hanson, Milwaukee, music; Miss Bertha Rudeford, defective speech and hearing; and Miss Ber-
